Corbin Consultation – Private School <http://www.corbinconsultation.com/>

This program is offered for grades 7-12, exceptions can be made for 6th graders based on testing and interview. This a very rigorous, academic program, and spots are limited. Students attend classes building a diverse transcript to obtain a high school diploma. The goal is to give students a competitive education, preparing them for higher education and the workforce. Classes are small and self-directed students are a must.

Cornville Regional Charter School <http://cornvilleregionalcharterschool.org/>

Founded in 2012, Cornville Regional Charter School offers a quality public school experience with a challenging and rigorous education for elementary school age children. The school environment emphasizes creativity, collaboration, community, service, and leadership. Students are encouraged to actively participate in setting goals and assessing progress for their personal academic achievement in meeting the Common Core Standards. We strive to make our learning environment caring, interactive and personally challenging to promote academic success. CRCS encourages participation and collaboration among students, parents, and teachers in areas of decision making, program development and student growth. We strive to instill strong social and environmental values, a sense of personal responsibility, and to create a love of learning.

Maine Academy of Natural Sciences – Goodwill Hinckley School - <http://www.gwh.org/>

We are proud to be the first high school in Maine that focuses on agriculture, sustainability, forestry, workforce skills training and independent living. We offer a unique high school experiences for the active, real-world learner. The legacy that George Walter Hinckley started in 1889 will continue with a new focus on project-based, theme-oriented learning that will prepare students to live successful lives as they continue their education and career training. We are located in central Maine on several hundred acres of wilderness, organic farmland and river frontage. We tailor our program to a student's specific interests, introducing them to careers in farming, forestry, sustainability, alternative energy and other related fields. Students gain knowledge and skills through hands-on projects, internships with local businesses, running our organic food farm stand and maple sugar shack, targeted curriculum, joint coursework with the local community college, and real-world experiences.
